

David Jones is Chief Market Analyst at CMC Markets, and appears regularly as a market commentator on financial channels such as CNBC. A fully qualified chartist, having passed the Society of Technical Analysts exams in 1996 he has run courses on this subject for many of the City's leading investment banks and stockbrokers. David has been an active investor and trader for a number of years, and his seminars at CMC aim to cut through the jargon and over-complicated approach of some forms of market analysis, focussing on tried and tested strategies across all markets that can be put in place straight away.